التوفير لموسم الرياض

Read the Reading Lab text again. Answer in full sentences.

Every year, Riyadh Season opens in October, and every year Ziad wants to go. There are games, shows and a Ferris wheel taller than his school. But this year, he wants to pay for the ticket himself.

So Ziad has a plan. He has a goal jar on his shelf. Every week, he puts some money inside: coins from his pocket, bills from Eid, and a little money he earns from washing his father's car. He rarely spends anything now.

His friends do not understand. "Just borrow some money from your brother," Hamad says. "No," Ziad answers. "My brother never lends money for free. He always wants my games. And I don't want to spend money I don't have."

After eight weeks, the jar is full. Ziad counts the coins and the bills: it is enough for the ticket and one cheap meal. He puts the money in his wallet and takes a photo of the empty jar. "Goal number one," he writes under it. "Next: a new keyboard."

1 Where does Ziad's money come from? Name three sources.

2 How long does it take to fill the jar?

3 Why doesn't Ziad want to borrow money from his brother?

4 What are you saving for? How much money do you save each week?
