Hey, I'm Ziad! Time to talk money, routines, and smart decisions.

Everyday decision-making in English: routines, money, requests, and advice -- the language your child needs to navigate real choices, not just describe the world around them.

By the end of this level, your child can:

- Describe routines with frequency words (always, never, how often)
- Talk about sequence (before and after)
- Ask politely and talk about possessions
- Ask about prices and talk about saving money
- Make polite requests ("I'd like...")
- Give and receive advice ("you should")
- Talk about future plans and the wider world

Who they're for, and why

Writing practice: your child continues writing three original sentences using that day's real grammar pattern -- for example, Present Simple Questions in Lesson 1. This is production, not recognition: applying the rule just learned, in a sentence your child builds themselves, not one picked from a list.

Flashcards: every card shows the picture and English word on one side and the Arabic translation on the other. That means either parent can quiz their teen at home, even without speaking English themselves -- a quick flip-through is real, screen-free repetition that keeps vocabulary fresh alongside the grammar work.

Squad Budget, this level's bonus game

A shopping-list budgeting game that also practices real conversation: most rounds have your child "buy" items from an Arabic shopping list, and a couple of rounds ask what comes next in a real chat between friends.

The screenshot shows the Squad Budget game interface. At the top, there's a status bar with "Exit", a star icon with "2", a coin icon with "105", and a progress indicator "3/6". On the left, a "Shopping List" panel shows items with checkboxes: "message — رسالة" (checked), "emoji — رمز تعبيري" (checked), "برد" (unchecked), "يقابل" (unchecked), "يتصل" (unchecked), and "يدعو" (unchecked). Below the list is a "RECEIPT" section showing "message" for 10 coins and "emoji" for 15 coins. In the center, a chat conversation is displayed. Omar asks, "How many apples do you want?". You reply, "I want five apples. How much bread do we need?". Three possible replies are shown: "We need two. Do we have any eggs?", "The same! Then I come home and go to bed.", and "Then I go to school. What about you?". A shopping cart icon is in the bottom right corner.

A conversation round: two real chat lines, three possible replies

How to play

1. Shopping rounds: an Arabic shopping list appears with priced market stalls -- your child listens for the word Lumi says, then taps the matching stall to "buy" it. A correct purchase adds it to a running receipt and deducts its price; a wrong tap costs nothing, and by the end the receipt shows everything bought plus coins left over.
2. Conversation rounds: two lines of a real back-and-forth chat appear, and your child picks what really comes next from three options -- genuine dialogue practice, not just vocabulary.
